

2010 - Rosamaria Loretelli and Frank O'Gorman (a cura di), Britain and Italy in the Long Eighteenth Century: Literary and Art Theories, Cambridge, Cambridge scholars publishing

Il volume raccoglie gli atti della conferenza Anglo-Italiana tenuta presso l'Università degli studi di Napoli nell'aprile 2009.

Indice

Rosamaria Loretelli and Frank O'Gorman, Introduction

Rosy Colombo, Dealing with Change in Literary and Art Theories

Francesca Orestano, Picturesque Reconsidered-and Preserved

Bram van Oostveldt and Stijn Bussels, Stranded in the Present, Modernity and De Ligne's Lettr e de Parthenizza

Andrea Gatti, A Dialogue between the Deaf and the Dumb: Aesthetic Theories in England and Italy during the Eighteenth Century

Daniele Niedda, The Linguistic Turn in the Aesthetics of the Scottish Enlightenment: Dugald Stewart

Suzanne Marcuzzi, Hutcheson on Beauty and Virtue

Ruth Perry, The Printed Record of an Oral Tradition: Anna Gordon Brown's Ballad

Lia Guerra, The Circulation of British Books in Eighteenth-Century Pavia: Work in Progress

Anna Giulia Cavagna, Eighteenth-Century Italian Books in London: The Presence of Italian Regional Publishing in the Collections of the British Library

Rosamaria Loretelli, The Space of Time: Fleurons as Temporal Markers in Samuel Richardson's Clarissa and Ugo Foscolo's Ortis

Riccardo Capoferro, Imaginary Voyages' Aesthetic Theories: Towards a Definition of the Fantastic

Barbara Witucki, Music, Don Quixote, and the Novels of Miss Burney

Silvia Granata, Talking Animals and the Instruction of Children. Dorothy Kilner's The Rational Brutes

Daniela Mangione, Fielding and Sterne: Reception, New Debts and Echoes in the Italian Novel of the First Hundred years

Emilio Sergio, A "British" Look at Italian Poetry: Saverio Bettinelli, the English Letters (1766), and the Idea of Cosmopolitanism

Angelo Canavesi, Sterne and Foscolo: The Ironic Sovereignty of the Individual

James Moore, "Marble Mad and Very Extravagant": Henry Ince Blundell and the Politics of Cultural Reputation in Britain and Italy